New hotels

Unique places to stay, in destinations of note

Can Ferrereta, Mallorca

The second Mallorcan opening from hotelier Andrés Soldevila Ferrer, owner of design favourite Sant Francesc Hotel Singular in Palma, Can Ferrereta is a 17th-century townhouse in the coastal town of Santanyi. The hotel houses 32 rooms, two bars, a terrace restaurant, pool, gym and spa, and surrounding gardens. The Soldevila Ferrer family worked alongside the Mallorcan-based Bastidas Architecture and Spanish design house WIT Lab to create a "grand summer house feel". Design details include a hessian palette with contrasting black wood panelling and metalwork, natural textured finishes, and a focus on local and Spanish contemporary art.

Paragon 700, Puglia

As Puglia's tourist numbers start to swell, new boutique hotels are appearing in unique locations across the region. One such launch is Paragon 700, a strikingly elegant hotel and spa in Puglia's "White City", Ostuni. In contrast to its surroundings of picturesque white homes spread across the hillside, the 17th-century building is the only red palazzo here. Its history has been beautifully restored, from the frescoed walls and cathedral ceilings to the original 18th-century tiles in the bar. It's furnished in eclectic style by owners Pascale Lauber and Ulrike Bauschke, and has 11 guest rooms, an enclosed citrus orchard and swimming pool with relaxation area.
